DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 10-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 10, lines 1-2, the phrase "the amplitude threshold" lacks antecedent basis. (It appears the claim should be depended on claim 8).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) or 102(e) as being anticipated by either U.S. Patent 5,719,324 (Thundat et al.) or U.S. Patent 6,848,295 (Auner et al.).

[It should be noted that the first reference numeral corresponds to Thundat et al. while the second reference numeral corresponds to Auner et al., separated by a semicolon).

With regards to claims 1-19, the references, Thundat et al. and Auner et al., discloses a microcantilever sensor comprising a transducer (12;104a) with an immobilized binding partner material and a sample material (described with no reference numeral;103a) disposed thereon wherein the sample material is applied to the immobilized binding partner material so that when the sample material includes components having sufficient affinity for the immobilized binding partner material, bonds will form between at least some of such components and the immobilize binding partner material; accelerating the transducer to induce bond breakage such that the accelerating is performed by applying a drive signal to the transducer at successively increasing energy level including an increase in amplitude and/or duration of the waveform wherein the drive signal including a waveform having multiple frequency components that are pre-selected based on expected resonance behavior of the transducer; and analyzing an output response of the transducer in response to application of the drive signal to determine whether the output response indicates a change in resonant frequency and the output response contains a known acoustic signature associated with breakage of a known body. (See, column 3, line 40 to column 8, line 45 and column 8, lines 22-45 of Thundat et al.; column 5, line 62 to column 7, line 23 and column 12, line 56 to column 13, line 44 of Auner et al.).

With regards to claims 20-41, the claims are commensurate in scope with claims 1-19 and are rejected for the same reasons as set forth above.

Conclusion

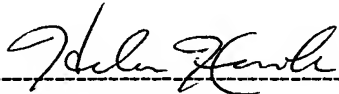

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

The references cited are related to microbalance sensor.
